Our trees are grown on high, pine land, set far apart, and are stronger and hardier than those grown under other conditions. We have no white fly, cushion scale or like insect pests. We have been in the business for twenty-five years, and have sifted out the less important varieties until we think we have all you need in a very small number. It is a big mistake to plant too many kinds, as you thereby have too many odds and ends in shipping. Late, Midseason and Early are all you need, if you get the best. Send for circulars and prices. WE PAY THE FREIGHT.

COMPOSITIONS IN PRISON.

Confinement Did Not Apparently Disturb These Men of Letters.

Imprisonment of the learned, whether legal or illegal, does not seem to have disturbed the man of letters in the progress of his studies.

It was in prison that Boethius composed his excellent book on the "Consolations of Philosophy," and Grotius wrote his "Commentary on St. Matthew" during his confinement.

While in the dungeon of a monastery in Portugal Buchanan composed his excellent "Paraphrases on the Psalms of David."

"Fleta," a well known and excellent law production, was written by a man confined in an English prison for life. His name, however, was not preserved.

During his confinement for five years on account of some state troubles Pelisson pursued with ardor his studies in the Greek language and produced several good compositions.

The best and most agreeable book in the Spanish language was composed by Michael Cervantes during his captivity in Barbary.

When Louis XII. was duke of Orleans he was taken prisoner at the battle of St. Aubin and confined in the tower of Bourges. While there he applied himself to his neglected studies, with the result that he subsequently became an able and enlightened monarch.

Margaret, queen of Henry IV., king of France, while confined in the Louvre warmly pursued the studies of elegant literature and composed a very skillful apology for the irregularities of her conduct.

During his confinement Sir Walter Raleigh produced his "History of the World."

Queen Elizabeth while imprisoned by her sister Mary wrote some very charming poems, and Mary, queen of Scots, during her long confinement by Elizabeth produced a number of pleasing compositions.

It was while he was cruelly confined at Holmsby that Charles I. wrote that excellent book entitled "The Portrait of a King," which he addressed to his son and in which the political reflections are said to be worthy of Tacitus. By some this work has been attributed to a Dr. Gander, a blatant radical of that period, but who was incapable of writing a single paragraph of it.

Origin of Some of the Dust.

Dust is to a large extent a product of human activity. In houses and workshops, on the highways and in the streets—everywhere there is wear and tear of things, and the product is always dust. The wearing and cleansing of our clothing are continually breaking up its fibers into minute particles, and the friction of clothing on the skin carries away the scales of the epidermis, which are constantly being shed and renewed.

Every contact of human feet, horses' hoofs and the wheels of vehicles with paving and road materials wears away particles of iron and stone. The effects of the weather and the alternations of cold and heat disintegrate all exposed surfaces. To these particles, which form the dust invariably present in dwellings and in the streets, there must be added the innumerable minute cells of vegetable origin incessantly floating in the air, and on a complete view the dust produced by the disintegration of meteors by contact with our atmosphere must also be mentioned.

Dust accordingly consists of portions of all substances, organic and inorganic, which decay by natural processes and are reduced to powder by any means whatever. Few of its constituents can be recognized by the naked eye. The microscope alone can detect the nature of many and especially those of the greatest importance.

An Impulsive Duchess.

In 1684 Anne Marie d'Orleans, the daughter of Philip of France and Henrietta of England, was married to Victor Amadeus II., and thus brought about an alliance between the houses of Stuart and Savoy. The duchess was an impulsive creature and not seldom was the occasion of surprise and dismay. After the marriage in Paris by deputy she traveled to Les Echelles, where for the first time in her life she saw her husband. The sequel is amusing.

The duchess had arrived only a few hours previously and was just finishing her breakfast as the duke entered the village. On hearing the approaching sound of fife and timbrels and the cacophony produced by cheers, voices and a general hubbub of excitement, she quickly rose from the table and looked out of the window to ascertain the cause of all this stir and commotion, when she saw the pageant, at the head of which marched a fair young man of distinguished and martial bearing, who she was told was Victor Amadeus. Without a moment's hesitation, casting to the winds all the tedious instructions of etiquette with which latterly she had been surfeited, she flew down the stairs into the street and threw herself into the duke's arms.—"Romance of Savoy."

An irritable man has, like a hedgehog, rolled up the wrong way, tormenting himself with his own prickles.—Hood.
